

How the Brain Works: Neuroanatomy Made Easy

Module 1 with Carol-Anne Bickerstaff

What you will learn:

1. complex information in an interactive format
2. fundamentals of Neuroanatomy (brain and nervous system)
3. application of scientific language
4. implication of heart and brain research

Why come?

1. to co-ordinate and connect what you do to the fundamentals of brain/heart science
2. to build self confidence in your understanding of how what you do works
3. to appreciate theories around the brain: their use and misuse

Our goal in bringing this class to you: is that by learning the application of scientific language to describe mind-body techniques it may well lead to an improvement in communication and co-operation. Building bridges to grow and nourish the effectiveness and acceptance of our/your work.

“It will be a stimulating, action-oriented, non-stressful 4 days of immense learning and excitement.”

“This seminar will integrate all the questions you wanted to ask but never did!! To know Carol-Anne is to know she guarantees you a solid foundational learning environment and will deliver the best of the best. With all her heart and soul. Be there don't miss it!! ”

Your Brain, Your Heart, Your Emotions.

You've learned a lot about your emotions and how to make new choices and change your behaviours. You continue to intuitively explore your heart and open it and we have all heard the expression since "one Brain":

"the furthest extension of your nervous system"

Well fans of frontal occipital holding here is your chance to use that expression and really know what you mean by it!

This course will serve anyone interested in the Brain and the connection of the nervous system and application to the system that interests you.

Yes it is a risk because it sounds soo scientific and it will be the basic fundamentals presented in a stimulating and action-oriented way. Come relaxed and ready to have fun because you will leave having not only learned about the brain, theories and implications you will be able to converse about them and continue to follow the latest research with a keen eye and ear!

Since 1999 this course has enthralled cranial sacral students, energy medicine practitioners and especailly those involved in any form of muscle testing. Be it the grandpapa and brilliance of Touch For Health™, Three In One Concepts™ and all the the "A-Z" kinesiology courses out there. :-)

The Frontier of the Brain is yours to learn and know about now.
